"The cages are smaller at Hungry Jack's"

Most animals raised for food in Australia come from factory farms, which is just like a living hell for animals. Burger King in the U.S. is leading the way to change, yet Hungry Jack's in Australia refuses to follow.

As an Australian consumer, I urge Hungry Jack's to implement a similar policy to that of international parent company Burger King in the United States, and commit to a phase-out of pork products from facilities that use sow-stalls and of eggs produced by hens in battery cages, with a view to total replacement of cruelly-produced products.
